

Who is she...

January 2019,

In life, whether at work, in politics, in the classroom, or in business, as women we have occasion when someone makes such an impact on us that we find ourselves asking the question “Who is she?” This question formulated in the minds of many Americans as we witnessed the poise, grace and intellect of Mrs. Michelle Obama. We yearned to find out who she was on the inside and what made her the person she is today. We wondered where she got such a strong passion for helping others and the drive to move past adversity. In her book entitled “Becoming”, she unveils her life’s journey, the good, the bad, the ups and downs. She warns us to never let our past define our trajectory in life and never feel that we have “arrived” no matter how much we accomplish in life. She spoke of the value of relationships and the support of family as she was “Becoming”.

In like manor, when you experience the presence of a Zeta lady whether in 1920 or in 2019, you will ask yourself the question, “Who is she...”. Take note:

She is...

A special bread of grace, a replica of her Five Eloquent Pearls yet uniquely fashioned for “Becoming” in her own rite.

She recognizes that the blood of kings and queens runs warm through our veins, so she carried herself with the poise of royalty and humility of a servant.

While she knows that her ancestors ruled under royal blue skies and white stars yet in the company of her sisters/Sorors she serves others selflessly. Their needs become her priority. On the shoulders of her Five Pearls and with the love and support of the Blue and White family she strives for greatness in spite of adversities.

She is a scholar, a sister and oh so finer woman of purpose, poise and character.

Her Zeta light shines in all she says and does.

You will know her by her words and deeds as well as her compassion and her self-confidence.

She strives to live out the dreams her Founders set forth 99yrs ago.

She is, a Royal woman of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc.
